ASSOCIATION OF ACADEMIC HEALTH SCIENCES LIBRARIES
Anti-Trust Policy
Adopted April 2011

Members are also reminded that AAHSL, like other associations, cannot engage in practices which would be viewed by the law as "restraint of trade." AAHSL cannot encourage a boycott of a specific vendor, product or service. This does not mean that there cannot be discussion of a specific product, service or vendor at AAHSL meetings or in AAHSL publications, including discussion lists. But, as relates to antitrust considerations, such discussion may not seek to fix prices, regulate the availability of services or products, encourage unfair practices, encourage non-competition, or encourage boycotts. AAHSL members must refrain from using AAHSL resources, including discussion lists, for these purposes.
